EMS and Anthropology

Hailey Reigle is a senior from Akron High School and is enrolled in the Emergency Medical Services program at Erie 1 BOCES Kenton Career and Technical Education Center.

"I enrolled in this program because I wanted a challenge academically, something different than what I was used to, as well as life skills that could be utilized in future jobs or as a helpful citizen," said Hailey.

In the fall of 2024, following graduation, Hailey plans on going into the Army Reserves, then college.

"I want to go to a two-year college and get my advanced EMT, transfer to a bachelor's degree in anthropology, then continue that field through a master's and doctorate degree," said Hailey. "While in my college years, I plan to work as an EMT and volunteer firefighter."

Under the instruction of Joshua Lembke, Hailey has learned about CPR, first aid, hazmat awareness and more.

"Hailey is among the highest achievers of the class in academics, attitude and ability," said Lembke. "Hailey is always in class and eager to learn to the highest level. She sets the example to the other students."

"This program has opened the possibilities to the medical field and given me a better idea of the world from a different perspective, making me a better fit and more understanding person to becoming an anthropologist," said Hailey.

As part of public education, Erie 1 BOCES offers a variety of career and technical programs during the regular school day to high school students in Erie County. High school students interested in learning more about how they can participate in various programs, such as emergency services, sports science, web and gaming technologies, nursing or aviation technology, should visit www.e1b.org/cte or speak with their high school counselor.
